Rose Novelties

DAVID O. DODD Although not a particularly new rose we cannot help but class it among the outstanding garden varieties. The blooms are borne on stiff erect stems and are a magnificent rich crimson, flushed scarlet color. They open to full-centered peony-like flowers without losing any of the vivid color. We consider David O. Dodd to be one of the best dark red garden roses. One-year plants, 20 cents; two-year plants, 75 cents.

CLIMBING TALISMAN (Everblooming). Identical with the bush variety except with climbing habit. Gardenia-like flowers of scarlet and gold. Illustrated on Page 2 of cover. One-year plants, 50 cents; two-year plants, $1.00.

Hollywood

ANGELE We consider this to be the finest white rose grown. Similar in many respects to Kaiserin but superior to it in all respects. The beautifully shaped, long creamy-white buds and open flowers are exquisite to behold, and the blossoms possess a delicate fragrance—something that is not true of other white roses. With this rose in your garden, you will find yourself cutting its lovely buds for the table in preference to the highly colored varieties. One-year plants, 20 cents; two-year plants, 75 cents.

AUTUMN QUEEN (Formerly Vice President Curtis). We decided to change the name of this rose to one that identifies its gorgeous coloring. It is difficult to describe the colors in this rose because of the intense richness and blending shades represented. The full handsome buds are a superb shade of burnt-orange, pink, salmon and gold, blending into full open flowers of the most glorious autumn shades. The plant is a strong grower with bronzy green foliage. A wonderful fall rose. One-year plants, 25 cents; two-year plants, 75 cents.

BLAZE (Everblooming Paul's Scarlet Climber). Plant patent No. 10. Seedling of Paul's Scarlet Climber and Gruss an Teplitz. A marvelous, hardy, everblooming scarlet-red rose, combining the bloom and growth of Paul's Scarlet Climber with the everblooming character of Teplitz. Very vigorous. Seldom out of bloom. Can be pruned very low for bedding; medium for shrub use; or trained as a climber. Two-year plants only $2.00 each.

COUNTESS VANDAL The Sensation of the Shows. Countess Vandal is a hybrid tea rose enthusiastically received by rose lovers. With its long pointed bud and its distinctive shadings of coppery bronze, suffused with soft gold. The blooms finish in a very unusual arrangement of petals reflexed with a silvery sheen.

The plant has great vigor and blooms unceasingly throughout the summer. It is rapidly becoming one of the leading sellers among Hybrid Tea Roses. Price, $1.50 each.

GOLDEN CLIMBER A new hardy golden yellow climbing rose with blooms of Hybrid Tea Type, very lasting and fragrant. Flowers usually come solitary on stiff strong stems. Handsome glossy foliage and prominent red thorns. Not everblooming. Two-year plants, $2.00.

LUCYLE A very large, firm ovoid glowing pink, opening to big full flowers. Because of its good clear color, excellent substance and freedom of bloom, we place it among the best pink roses. It opens slowly and there is nothing fleeting about it. One-year plants, 25 cents; two-year plants, 75 cents.

MARY HART Red Talisman (Plant patent No. 8). Endowed with all the good qualities of its parent, Talisman. The color is glowing maroon-red, lightening to copper-red, but is never yellowish, and there is not the least tinge of blue in any stage of the flower. A superb rose. Two-year plants only $1.50 each.

SOUVENIR A Golden Talisman (Plant patent No. 25). Finest of the yellow sports of Talisman, with clear yellow flowers that do not bleach in the rain or sun. The erect bush has unusual vigor and is a splendid rose for the garden. Two-year plants only, $1.00 each.

HOW TO GROW ROSES

For more than sixty-five years Vestal & Son have been growing roses for Southern homes and Gardens. Each plant, each bud has received the careful attention which insures sweeter fragrance, more delicate coloring and more perfect shape.

Thousands of garden-lovers throughout the Southland have realized the superiority of Vestal Roses. You will find them gracing nooks and corners around beautiful homes in many states. You will see their rare crimson, pink and yellow tints contrasted against the dark green of Vestal shrubs, lifted above the restrained hues of Vestal's Spring flowers.

With few exceptions, Vestal's Roses are grown on their own roots. Roses of this type are never troubled with wild shoots coming up from the roots which most generally is the case with grafted or budded plants. Every new cane, whether from below or above the ground, will have blossoms of the true variety, so in growing own root roses do not be afraid of the strong vigorous canes that come up from below the ground; for they are from the original plant.

Another advantage of Vestal Roses is that they are shipped with a ball of dirt on the roots. This extra feature enables them to be set out with perfect safety at any time. Our two-year plants are potted in the early fall, plunged in the ground in cold frames outdoors during the winter months where they harden and mature slowly and evenly.

One-year roses are greenhouse grown plants and are not subjected to outside weather conditions until planted. For this reason they should not be planted out of doors in the open, unless given protection, until after severe freezing weather is over.

WHERE TO PLANT The average home grounds can usually furnish several available spaces for rose beds. Choose a place where the sun will shine for at least one-half the day, and, if possible facing to the South or Southeast. Avoid planting too close to trees or hedges as they take the nourishment away from the roses. Select a well drained place, both surface and underground; roses do not like wet feet. Try to combine in your location as many of these conditions as possible, because, while no point is absolute, all are important; but don't give up the prospect of growing roses for the lack of some one of them. If you are earnest in your endeavor you can soon provide the essentials.

SOILS Any soil that will grow vegetables or other crops will grow roses, but they like a rather stiff, clay soil that is at the same time porous. They will also grow in sandy soils to which a portion of clay loam has been added; and likewise, if the soil is too heavy, a little sand may be mixed with it for better drainage. Some soils are too acid for best results for roses and need an application of ground limestone. The application of lime will benefit most soils but will not harm any. Apply at the rate of one pound per square yard of surface. If hydrated lime is used, apply only half as much.

PREPARING THE SOIL Having selected the location and decided upon the size and shape of your beds, you are ready to prepare the soil. The results you obtain in growing roses will depend to a great extent on the thoroughness of this operation. Eighteen inches is not too deep to spade or fork the soil, as the roots of roses often extend even deeper than this in their search for food and moisture. After the soil has been worked up level with a rake, at the same time pulverizing the soil as much as possible to make all the plant food available.

PLANTING Planting roses is not a serious or complicated job; on the other hand, it is amazingly easy. When ready to plant remember again that the roots must be kept from the wind and sun. The best plan is to keep the roots covered with a damp piece of burlap or of other packing material. Unwrap each plant just before placing it in the ground. The size of the rose bed may be any width, length, or shape as desired, but in planting the roses allow two and one-half to three feet apart each way for each rose bush. This allows plenty of room for proper development. If only a single row is planted, they may be set two feet apart in the row and still have plenty of room. Make the holes in the bed plenty big enough to accommodate the roots in a natural and uncramped position, neither too deep nor too shallow (see illustration). If pot-grown roses are being planted, set about one inch deeper than the surface of the pot and do not break the ball of earth that holds the roots. Settle well pulverized soil in around the roots, so as to fill up every air space, and so that every single root will be entirely enclosed in soil. When the hole is half filled, and roots covered, press the soil down firmly with the hands; then fill the hole with water and let it drain away; fill in level with soil, and tamp it carefully but firmly, then give a final covering of soil, which should be about level with the surrounding turf, but not high enough to let the water run away when it rains.

FERTILIZER Closely related to the preparation of the soil is the proper kind of fertilizer to use. Much has been said for and against barn yard manures, but no fertilizer has been found that will give better results in growing roses than half rotted cow manure; and especially when the rose beds are first prepared. A three-inch layer spread on the top of the bed and thoroughly mixed with the soil will give wonderful results. If barn yard manure is not available, any other good commercial fertilizer is the next best. Apply at the rate of two ounces for every plant to be planted. Ground bone meal may be worked in at the time the roses are set or applied any time thereafter. It is slow acting, from which you get results for several months and years afterwards. One pound may be applied to every square yard of bed surface. If possible, all fertilizers, except those used in after years as a food, should be applied several weeks before the roses are planted. Roses require liberal applications of fertilizers, and it is not often that two much manures are used. However, when manures have been applied for a long number of years to the same beds, there is danger of the soil becoming too light, and firing or burning of the roses results.

TIME TO PLANT This depends on the section of the country in which you live. With us in the South and Southwest, roses may be planted any time from the first of October until the first of June, excepting those periods during the colder winter months when the ground is frozen. Pot-grown roses may be planted at any time of the year if water is available to firmly establish them in the ground and allow the new roots to take hold. Autumn and early Spring planting of roses, however, is preferred because the roots get established before hot weather.

TREATMENT ON ARRIVAL As soon as you receive the package from the express office or postman, unpack at once and place in a shady place. Do not unwrap the roots until ready to plant. Do not expose roots to the sun or wind. If unable to plant the roses as soon as they arrive, "heel them in" in the garden until you are ready to plant them. If "heeled in," press the soil cover firmly around the roots to keep down evaporation.

CULTIVATION AND WATERING As a general rule, Mother Nature attends to her job of watering the trees and plants, but weather conditions vary and roses need plenty of water as well as sunshine, so it is well to aid Mother Nature by man-made methods, and when dry weather comes, resort to artificial watering. Make a good job of watering your plants. Don't just soak the surface of the ground for an inch or two. Soak the dirt well all the way down below the roots. Late afternoon is the best time to water as evaporation is not so great as it is during the hotter part of the day. As soon as the surface of the bed has dried out enough to allow cultivation, scratch the entire surface about an inch deep and leave in a finely pulverized condition. Frequent cultivations are more beneficial than watering every day. Cultivate at least once a week and oftener if possible, and always as soon after watering or a rain as the soil is in a condition for cultivation. Keep all weeds and grass out of the rose beds and do not plant other flowers in the same bed with roses.

MULCHING This serves to retain the moisture and also to preserve a suitable temperature. A dust mulch is maintained by frequent hoeing and is perhaps the best method, although during the hot months a strawy cow or horse stable manure, that will not heat, is very beneficial. Heat moss may be applied three or four inches all over the rose beds during the summer months. It keeps the soil cooler and stops weed growth. This may be removed in the fall to be followed by a mulch of manure for winter protection and an early spring feed.

WINTER PROTECTION In the South and Southwest it is not necessary to give roses any winter protection other than a straw mulch. Farther North, however, the tender varieties should be mounded up from 8 to 12 inches with soil around the base of the plants and the tops wrapped with straw and burlap. This is only recommended in sections where the weather is below zero and remains at this temperature for a long period. In warm sections, if the plants are wrapped the covering should be removed as soon as the cold spell is over. If allowed to be covered too long the tops of the plants rot.

PRUNING A good rule to follow with pruning bush roses is to cut out all dead wood at any time of the year that it is noticed. Uneven growth may also be pruned back at any time of the year without injury. The main pruning in the spring may be done in January, February, or March, depending on the section. With a handsaw and pruning shears, remove all dead wood and other wood that has lost its usefulness to the main plant. Care should be used to keep the plants as symmetrical as possible, at the same time removing all the dead, weak, overcrowded and otherwise useless shoots. New plants should be cut back to within six inches of the ground, and older plants one-half to two-thirds of the previous season's growth. By thinning out the shoots, more strength is left for the main stalks. If budded or grafted roses have been planted, the gardener should keep a sharp lookout for ground suckers and cut them off before they have time to draw much sap strength from the main root system. In the pruning out of shoots they may be entirely cut away to the base of the plant, or to its starting point on the older shoot, from which it springs. When the plant has been pruned, the shoots should be left as nearly as possible as equal distance from each other, so that the plant presents a well-balanced appearance at all times. Climbing Roses should only be pruned immediately after their blooming period. At this time cut out all dead parts and remove most of the growth that is over two years old. Climbing roses bloom freest on second year growth. Tip back all the present season's growth at least one-third to one-half. The lateral shoots that come from these canes will give the best blossoms next season. Tipping back the long canes on everblooming climbing roses causes them to bloom more during the summer and fall.

ANEMONE CHRYSANTHEMUMS

20 cents each. Set of 4 for 50 cents

The anemone flowers consist of one or more rows of flat or tubular ray florets with shorter quilled or tubular disc florets of the same or a distinct color, and are grown in sprays for artistic floral arrangements. Fine for disbudding.

BLANCHE One of the largest anemones yet produced; snow white, very perfect in form, large finely rounded cushion, and snowy ray petals.

NORMA Probably no chrysanthemum introduced in past years has created such a favorable impression amongst flower buyers as has this new introduction. For best results, disbudding should be practiced, allowing plant to carry six to eight blooms. "Norma" is a large flowering orchid-pink anemone with golden-pink cushion making a very striking combination. Individual flowers average 4 inches to 5 inches across.

ROSE ROYAL Another fine anemone and rather distinct in color, being a violet-rose throughout, and matures November 15; disbud.

NOTE

The express rates this year have been reduced about 25%, which will be a big saving over last year when plants are shipped by express.

Heretofore, nursery stock has been shipped as first class—now it is second class.

HINTS ON CHRYSANTHEMUM GROWING

WHEN TO PLANT This depends on the section, but usually any time that the ground can be worked from the first of March up to the first of July.

SOIL Any soil that will grow other flowers or crops will grow chrysanthemums, preferably a sandy clay loam with a mixture of well-rotted cow manure.

FEEDING Chrysanthemums are gross feeders but there is no set rule for the amount of fertilizer to use, as this will depend on the richness of the soil in the beginning. Liquid manure water may be applied every three weeks during the growing season up to the time the buds show color. Do not fertilize after the flowers are opening.

TRAINING A strong outdoor plant can support four strong shoots and produce large blossoms. When the plants are 8 inches high pinch out the tops, and after the new shoots appear select the four strongest to produce the blossoms. Remove all the rest of the shoots except these four. When the shoots have grown enough to need staking, tie them to a stake, but not too tight.

Every 5 or 6 days the plants should be examined, and with the thumb and forefinger remove all the lateral buds that come out at the axil of the leaves, but always leave the main terminal bud undisturbed. In case the main shoot gets broken off, select the next strongest lateral bud just below and carry on as before.

Sometimes chrysanthemum plants that are propagated in the greenhouse early in the Winter, before the plants have had a sufficient rest, will form flower buds in early Spring and Summer. These will in no way effect the blooming qualities of the plants in the Fall. Remove these immature flower buds as soon as noticed, and if they persist in forming, keep on removing them by pinching out the tops until a strong growth shoot appears for the lower part of the plant.

ENEMIES Green and Black Aphis are the most destructive insect pests, but one or two applications of Nicotine Sulphate applied at the rate of one teaspoonful to a quart of water and sprayed on the plants will completely destroy these insects.

GOLDEN FEATHER One of the handsomest of tawny yellows. Brilliant old gold describes it.

CAPTAIN COOK The color is a lovely shade of rose-pink, very brilliant and free from lavender tones.

CHRISTMAS GOLD "Baby 'Mum." Golden yellow. Flowers in December.

FIRE BIRD While not extra early, this is the best early red we have seen. Color very bright; strong upright growth.

GOLD COIN A large bright yellow flowering pompon.

GOLDEN CLIMAX A very pleasing shade of bright yellow; medium.

GOLDEN SCEPTRE Belongs to the intermediate sections, being one and three quarters to two inches in diameter; color very bright yellow. Matures November 25.

HILDA CANNING A very attractive bronze of the small flowered section. Very striking and desirable.

ILLONA Rosy lavender, much the same color as Western Beauty but produces larger sprays.

MARY ANN Large flowered and bright pink on long, stiff stems.

MRS. H. HARRISON Very early, light daybreak pink; when matured, pearl white.

MRS. NELLIE KLERIS A fine sturdy grower. Very fine shade of clear pink.

NUGGETS Best large button type yellow for early November. Fine for pot culture.

SAVANNAH One of the very best yellows.

SILVER BALL Very pure white and exceedingly perfect in form. It is much earlier than White Doty, being fully matured by October 12.

UNALGA An intense yellow, even brighter than Christmas Gold. Three and one quarter inches when disbudded. May also be grown naturally to sprays to advantage, producing eight to ten flowers $2\frac{1}{4}$ inches in diameter.

VARSITY A greatly improved Golden Baby, larger size; quite round; comes in just before Christmas.

VASCO This variety is very serviceable grown either in sprays or disbudded. Its color is bright, glowing yellow.

VERA VICTORIA One of our very best yellows for mid-November. Makes a strong growth and gives a heavy cut from the space occupied. The sprays are fine, and the color is a clear deep yellow.

WESTERN BEAUTY Flower large, deep rose-pink; stiff upright growth.

WHITE GEM A worthy companion for Little Gem, being of the same general character except in color, which is pure white. Strong, vigorous growth, maturing mid-season.

Mammoth-leaved Rex Begonias are Ideal Box Plants for Shady Porches

Vestal's Choicest Flowering Begonias

REX BEGONIA The Rex division of the Begonia family has been a great favorite. In no other class of plants do we find the rich metallic foliage, lustre and various colors so satisfactorily blended as here. We find colors of bright green, silver colored, reddish bronze, as well as varieties of bright rosy plum color. The soil should be light and porous. Price of good, strong, established plants, 35c each; 3 different varieties for $1.00.

STAR BEGONIA The leaf is very large—will average a foot or more in diameter—and is separated into seven or nine large points, carried on thick, heavy stems, 18 inches or more in height; color a rich green, with reddish markings; surface velvety. In bloom it is magnificent; the panicle, composed of great numbers of individual pink blooms, is lifted high and spray-like, quite clear of foliage. One of the best for winter bloom, besides being ornamental in foliage. Price, 35c.

ARGENTEA GUTTATA It has purple-bronze leaves, oblong in shape, with silvery markings. Produces white flowers in bunches on ends of growth stems. 20c each, 3 for 50c.

CAROLINE LUCERNE A superb new variety of the Coral Begonia, producing gigantic trusses of bronzy-red flowers and flowering continuously from April to November. The foliage is dotted with silvery white. Blooms last from a month to six weeks, and are borne in immense clusters, almost hiding the plant. M. DE LESSEPPS It is beautifully spotted with silver. A very strong, free-growing variety that will succeed with ordinary care. White flowers. 20c each, 3 for 50c.

PINK RUBRA (Angel Wing.) We doubt if there is a pink flowered variety that equals it. The foliage resembles Rubra in shape, but is a lighter green, while the flower panicles are much handsomer. It is a pure pink flowering Begonia. 20c each, 3 for 50c.

THURSTONII A distinct and pretty shrubby variety, with thick, heavy foliage, which is of a rich metallic green above and bright red underneath; the flowers are a fine pink, rising well above foliage. 20c each, 3 for 50c.

Fruits and Berries

Youngberry

The New Youngberry

The berries are always large and often enormous in size, yet they are firm enough to be remarkable keepers and shippers. They are a deep wine color, changing to jet black as they age, and the exquisite flavor suggests a combination of raspberry, blackberry and dewberry, with a piquancy which gives just the right zest to their superior sweetness. The seeds are so few and so soft that the berries may be considered as practically seedless, and even the cores are tender and melting. For eating fresh, or for jams and jellies, we do not believe they have a superior, and market dealers will corroborate the fact that housewives once familiar with the Youngberry will select it in preference to any other kind.

The vines are extremely vigorous, mildly thorny and should be trained on wire trellises. The large size of the berries and their accessibility makes picking cost much less than ordinary berries. The fruit ripens very early, and is borne continuously for several months. We have no hesitancy in highly recommending the Youngberry either for home or commercial planting. Plant six to seven feet apart in rows eight to nine feet apart. Strong transplanted plants, 12 for $1.25, 100 for $8.00.

MASTODON EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY

Unlike other everbearers, the plants of the Mastodon are large, vigorous, heavily crowned and deep rooted. This explains their ability to produce enormous loads of fine fruit. Every plant produces heavily, also the runner plants; in fact, it is a true everbearer and the only one that will produce a paying crop of berries the same season it is planted.

Regardless of your past experience with Everbearing Strawberries, for your own good we urge you to plant this wonderful new, different everbearing. It will amaze you with the tremendous load of extra fine fruit produced by every plant. Price, 25 for $1.25, 50 for $2.00, 100 for $3.50, post-paid.
